It is fair and reasonable for all schools

Anonymous

It offers the greatest distribution of funds

Anonymous

10/01/2021 02:20 PM

It is the best option for our school financially but also for all the schools that it makes a difference to.

Absolutely essential that we ensure that funding follows the child in our education system. It is not morally right that we are supporting schools with falling numbers and moving money away from the child.

If we go for 2% and we have more deprivation picked up in census, thus more income, we will then get capped.

Reducing to 0.5% may adversely impact more schools while increasing to 2% means taking more funding than necessary from schools due to gain most. Maintaining the middle ground at 1.25% offers a more balanced & fairer approach.

Balance

this would offer a greater minimum increase in per pupil funding and would result in a smaller number of schools due to gain most having their gain capped, compared with +2.00%

Schools would receive a greater min increase in pupil funding and those schools identified will receive some additional / extra funding. It may mean that there will be some capacity to provide additional monetary support in other areas.

Gives all schools a minimum increase without capping other schools. As a secondary school with large annual pay increases, our funding needs to be at the required level with no capping.

Growth / Falling roll budget as discussed at forum

Anonymous

10/01/2021 02:20 PM

Falling rolls fund will surely alleviate the issues leading to the pupil place strategy

Anonymous We should have a growth fund to support schools and innovation.

10/03/2021 06:44 PM

Anonymous SEN in particular SEMH is one of the biggest issues Headteachers are facing - could it be spent there? If not, to establish a Growth Fund

10/10/2021 10:39 AM

Anonymous A falling rolls fund would be of great benefit to schools facing significant budget reduction due to falling numbers.

10/11/2021 03:38 PM

Anonymous High needs and supporting students at risk or in crisis

10/12/2021 09:12 PM

Anonymous I would prefer to see any spare capacity within the funding available, used to establish a falling rolls fund, as the falling birth rate makes this a significant funding challenge for some Wirral schools

10/13/2021 02:16 PM

Anonymous Maintaining a small Growth/ Falling rolls fund would support school smost in need of additional funding to manage shigting numbers.
